PATENT OFFICE.

WILLIAM THORNTON, clerk.

Patents are obtained by application to the secretary of state, for any new invention, discovery, or improvement. The applicant is the only judge by law, of the propriety of the application, and a patent is not to be considered as any evidence of the efficacy or goodness of the invention, discovery, or improvement, nor any exclusion of the rights of others. It only secures rights from infringement.—A patent can only be granted for one invention, discovery, or improvement. It is granted for fourteen years. The applicant, if a citizen, takes legally, an oath or affirmation, “that he does verily believe that he is the true inventor or discoverer of the said improvement;” if not a citizen, but having resided two years in the country, he adds, “and that to the best of his knowledge, the same hath not been used or known in this or any foreign country.” He transmits a certificate signed by any respectable individual, of his citizenship, or residence for two years. He gives in writing a specification of the discovery, invention, or improvement, as short but explicit as he can; explaining by words, not only the invention or improvement, but its use and advantage, without any reference to a drawing or model, for the specification enters into and makes part of the letters patent. This must be signed before two witnesses. A drawing must also be sent, if the subject admit of one, with explanatory references; and if the complexity of the invention or improvement should render the drawing and explanation insufficient for the full comprehension of the subject a model will also be required. It is material that these be executed in a manner not unworthy public inspection; for at the expiration of the patent, they may, if thought worthy, be made public. If two persons apply at the same time, for patents, and the secretary of state thinks their discoveries, inventions or improvements interfere, an arbitrator may be chosen by each of the applicants, and if they cannot agree, an umpire may be chosen by the secretary of state, to determine who is the first inventor.

POST-OFFICE ESTABLISHMENT.

At this time, there is a main post road which extends 1733 miles from Robbinstown, on the north eastern extremity of the sea coast of the United States, to St. Mary's, on the south eastern extremity; and another main post road, which leads from the seat of government to New-Orleans, being a distance of 1233 miles, and branches or cross roads, which keep up a communication between the capital of the United States and the capitals of the individual states, and also with every city or village of any note. The aggregate of the extent of the several post roads is 37035 miles.

The mail is carried by contracts made with the post-master-general, who has divided the whole into nearly 400 routs or contracts, and has stipulated for its conveyance as often and with such expedition as he finds the public interest requires. It runs daily between the great and commercial towns; twice a week to the capitals of each state not commercial, and once a week to other places. The usual rate of travelling on the cross roads is 40 miles a day; and from 60 to 120 miles in 24 hours, between the great commercial towns.

Post-offices are established by the post-master-general, at such places as he considers expedient.

There are stages for the conveyance of the mail and passengers, from Belfast in Maine, to St. Mary's in Georgia, and on many of the cross-roads.

IN HOLLIDAY ST.—NEAR THE THEATRE;

Open every day (except Sunday) from 8 in the morning till sunset, and elegantly illuminated, except during the hot weather, every Tuesday & Thursday evening.

ADMITTANCE 25 CENTS.

THIS useful and pleasing institution, which is always increasing by valuable additions and frequent donations, comprises a grand saloon of historical paintings, portraits of distinguished persons, naval engagements, landscapes, views of celebrated places, and a variety of other pictures; besides an interesting collection of natural curiosities, of various countries. The stupendous skeleton of the mammoth, dug up by the proprietors in Orange county, New York; quadrupeds, birds, fishes, snakes, lizards, and insects; shells and putrefactions; minerals and fossils; plants, &c. miscellaneous curiosities; ingenious works of art; products of manufactures; dresses, instruments of war, and implements of art of various nations; coins, medals and antiquities; optical amusements and philosophical demonstrations.

THE WHOLE DISPLAYED IN A SPACIOUS BUILDING, ERECTED FOR THE PURPOSE.

In rooms contiguous to the museum, may be seen two much admired works of art. One, an entire statue of wax, coloured like life, representing a beautiful female, modestly reclining on a Grecian couch. The other, a painting, called the Dream of Love, representing an elegant young female, reclining in a grotto, repelling the enchantment of love.
